I am looking forward to hearing your voice.
I have obviously had a much easier time than you - JE and I are still talking about the W W H W of our relationship, and what it looks like going forward from here with you in my life - he has nothing, had nothing negative to say and has simply reviewed all the ways for us to remain close without impeding any plans or fun that we may have !
Have a good dinner

   I'm so sorry that you have to deal with that.

Just got done with our boat ride.   Took the big boat, and it broke. Tough to park with the engines pointing in different directions but we managed.

Taking the kids to dinner now.

Call when I can, not sure what's around the corner but I am sure how I feel about you.

I could not hear her very clearly but what I could understand is that she was asking me to stay away form you as you were working through things - or something to that effect. I saved them if you want or need to hear them
