T-MOBILE IS IN RECEIPT OF YOUR LEGAL DEMAND AND RESPONDS AS FOLLOWS:

The legal demand seeks records that have been archived. T-Mobile hereby objects to the legal demand as overbroad, unduly burdensome, not refined in scope or date range, does not permit adequate time for response and makes no provision for the pre-payment of the reasonable cost of production and delivery of the archived records. T-Mobile would suffer an undue burden if compelled to respond to the legal demand as written.

Notwithstanding the foregoing objections, and without waiving same, T-Mobile will provide additional responses if you agree to modify the terms of the legal demand as follows.

1. Consistent with 18 U.S.C. 2706(C), the legal demand is hereby modified to reflect that the requestor hereby authorizes payment to T-Mobile for the reasonable costs of production and delivery of the archived records sought, as set forth below; and,
2. The return date for the delivery of archived records is hereby modified to the fifteenth business day following receipt by T-Mobile of a signed copy of this authorization of payment.

Submission of a revised legal demand is not necessary. Any and all non-archived records are included with this response. T-Mobile's objection pertains only to the request for archived records. Authorization of payment below will indicate your agreement to modify the legal demand consistent with this invoice.

Please take notice that T-Mobile does not store or maintain the content of text messages. If text message content has been requested, T-Mobile will produce text message billing details only.

Historical cell site location information is maintained for approximately 24 months following usage and may not be available for the entire date range set fourth in this legal demand.

Archived call records associated with post paid accounts are stored and delivered in market time. Archived text and data records associated with post paid accounts are stored and delivered in Pacific Time.

Archived call, text, and data records associated with flex pay or family mobile accounts are stored and delivered in market time.

All archived records will be delivered in PDF format and will have the appearance of traditional monthly billing invoices. Network data, including missed or unanswered calls are not available or included in archived records.

Please note that T-Mobile's retention time for archived call detail records is 7 years. At times, records older than 7 years may be available. The attached invoice contains the total amount of billing months available as of today's date. Please be aware that these records have not been preserved and records older than 7 years may be purged at any time.
