Hello workshop participants,

I have attached 3 documents to help prepare you for the upcoming workshop on Human Uniqueness and Behavioral Modernity. One document is an agenda, the second a set of questions for you to think about, and the third a spreadsheet that is part of one of the questions.

Each of these is a first draft, and we encourage you to come back to us with comments and suggestions. Kim Hill is away in the field until the 20th of January and out of e-mail contact, so please respond to me (curtis.marean@asu.edu) with any feedback. If you can have your feedback to me by the 20th of January, then

Kim, Lawrence, and I will collate and respond to that, and send out a revised agenda and set of questions.

The workshop will have a simple webpage that is designed to help you acquaint yourself with the other participants. Since we have so many disciplines represented, we think this will be useful for you to acquaint yourself with the others. Sometime soon our webmaster will contact you and ask for a small set of items for the webpage, including a brief description of your interests and research, as well as a couple of papers that you think represent your interests.

Have a good holiday season, and we look forward to your participation.

Best,
Curtis
