Sorry, maybe there is some miscommunication here. I don't think this is any different than we discussed a couple of months ago with regard to ATMs. We have no way of knowing which ATMs have higher limits for non-customers of those banks, and whether they will let you take multiple withdrawals across ATMs at the same bank. We did talk about using a teller window for a cash advance of greater amounts – did that not work?

Bella,

As discussed, see ATM/debit card details below:

Transactions using a PIN

- $12,000 – ATM cash out
- $1,000 – Purchases

Transactions without using a PIN

- $12,000 – Cash Advance
- $7,500 – Purchases

Each Bank ATM has its own limits, for their own customers and external customer. You will have to use the card at multiple banks to be able to get to the max $12,000 limit.

Regards,
Brad
