I think something like this is a great idea and that it could come from you. I would feel comfortable sending to all private bankers a list by team of books out and commitments each week. This will increase focus on the offering and pull in your team more closely. Assuming you agree, let's develop it with Bernard's team.

sending out a lot SOF III presentations, just a thought but we used to at JP send around every several days to the bankers a list of every client/-prospects that say was invited to a managers lunch or got the materials with status with indications (soft/committed etc with totals) kept folks very focused on the offering, this is a good one

Sure thing, a few things from today, had breakfast with randy russell this week, spoke today, sounds like charlie wants to move forward with smaller loan and I should be getting a call, Leon should be opening up trading accounts very soon per epstein call today, and laura farischon is working on due diligence on taking a piece of upsize to gottesmans art facility, say 50-100.
