

2017/01/31

[Redacted]

Sometimes also having something to "control" can be helpful

So for example a decision or a timeline or an if/then scenario

02:33:06 am

[Redacted]

like how long it will take for you to fuck bill? :)

02:33:23 am

[Redacted]

is she medically capable? Sound mind for decisions or is she delirious?

02:33:33 am

[Redacted]

half

02:33:44 am

[Redacted]

You may be able to Commit against her will if you think danger to self or others and not clearly thinking

Temporary and her husband or next of kin can help

02:34:19 am

Bill different.
He can't Wife vicious
I scared

02:34:37 am

she also has ovaries
02:34:54 am

I don't
02:35:01 am

I still scared
02:35:13 am

She prob has more testosterone than most large males
02:35:33 am

yechh
02:36:06 am

If you think Eva in danger commit her
02:36:13 am

Don't think twice
MRSA not friendly
02:36:29 am

I'm getting more info. can i commit you and bill to the same ward
02:36:56 am

If her kidneys aren't working she could have sodium issues making her a little crazy
02:37:05 am

YES
02:37:12 am

why is vancomycin hard on kidneys

02:37:29 am

Not always nephrotoxic but in some folks just is

02:37:53 am

Not known mechanism but it is dose related

02:38:38 am

So if toxic you just back off aNd stuff is usually ok

02:38:54 am

But if she doesn't have a line you can't tell vanc peak/trough (how it's being metabolized) and you also don't know electrolytes

02:39:38 am

Double whammy

02:39:43 am

understood

02:39:53 am

✓ Sent

https://www.hopkinsguides.com/hopkins/view/Johns_Hopkins_ABX_Guide/540518/all/Staphylococcus_aureus

02:41:16 am

Read this might help

02:41:16 am

Scroll down maybe there are some oral meds to bridge in short term and while majorly suboptimal are better than zero

02:45:34 am

02:47:33 am

✓ Read