My 2019 insite. Is we ignore the fact that our inputs take time to process before they are perceived. .   like when one blinks the brain fills in the gap or the blind spot on the retina is not seen.   If the input goes to memory fast, we think we've seen it before. deja vu.

With regard the space embedding.   How do you describe the smaller distance above a line to go over it. .   the tiniest of another dimension. Only big enough to jump a line.
