I am on page 120 already, . some really great questions. I really like distinguishing universes by we live in the " human " one. that meets nicely with science. on the other side , when you write , " when light behave as energy" , it needs editing i.e. light always behaves as energy, if you could slow down the radio waves entering your computer, you could see them.

sorry , I can write as many notes as beethoven, but it is in their order and interaction that makes things different. yeast also share the same genes.
