You should find a simple metabolomics in vascular plants to find out which neurotransmitters they have

Next ask why
06:06:23 am

why
10:22:04 am

how did the meeting go. did you strap on your balls. or did you whine
10:42:11 am

You love plants and learning about how and why they share so much w humans

03:31:38 pm

Meeting was great - at first there were a lot of ppl

We went through the agenda items and slide deck and had discussions pretty quickly

He took a ton of notes which is great

Then everyone left except larry and I presented my next idea about modern neuron and they

Loved it

It went a little long but he was in a super good mood

He said he's open to it, fantastic idea, started brainstorming on thjngs to do and people to meet

He says need to decide if we want to do as a public good or a private company and think about incubating it at C3 or intellectual ventures or somewhere in his world

He says private is better

He says sketch it out and let him know and loved the science super innovative etc and that was it

Larry was into it as well

03:37:18 pm

No drama

03:37:30 pm

All positive supportive and really engaged - seems to me if you really be legitimate and propose real science it would be hard (or sad) for them to say no

Actually making progress on "next" science venture with larry involved / no drama at all there

08:54:57 pm

Paul Allen not sure if he will/wants to hire anyone but says if he does I'm "first in line"

He says having ppl around is a big liability generally

He's right !

08:57:03 pm

BG asked me to talk to all the lawyers and larry is helping shape the concept to incubate a company

08:57:52 pm

Should be a week or so before lawyers decide on potential areas of IP

Just forwarded you the email BG asked me to send and copied Nathan! 😊 he told me to copy Nathan and that larry was optional since it involved confidential science . So I decided no larry.
