Thank you for contacting the PayPal Global Investigations Team. This message is an auto-response to a request you recently submitted to our team.

We have received your user data request and have assigned it to an Investigator who will review it and respond with records. The Safety Hub included a field requesting the date your court order or requested data is returnable. We will make every effort to review and schedule delivery of any responsive records by that due date or within 10 business days.

Thanks again for your inquiry and we look forward to working with you.

Regards,

PayPal Global Investigations
