Bodies of Two Israeli-American Hostages Recovered From Gaza in Joint Military Operation

The Associated Press (06/05, Lidman, Melzer, Shurafa) and Reuters (06/05, Al-Mughrabi, Cornwell) reported that Israel has recovered the bodies of two Israeli-American hostages, Judith Weinstein and Gad Haggai, from the Gaza Strip. The two hostages, who also held US citizenship, were taken by Hamas militants during the October 7, 2023, attack and were later killed. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu confirmed the recovery of the bodies and extended condolences to the families of the victims. CNN (06/05, Yosef, Lilleholm, Liebermann) noted that a statement from the family thanked the U.S. administration, the Israeli government, and the FBI for their "tireless work and ongoing support." Additional reporting on the story was provided by Fox News (06/05, Betz, Rotem-Kuriel), BBC (06/05, Gritten), Washington Post (06/05, Cheesman, Rom), NPR (06/05, Estrin), New York Times (06/05, Rasgon, Solomom), Wall Street Journal (06/05, Lieber), Washington Examiner (06/05, Staff Writer), Washington Times (06/05, Glenn), NBC News (06/05, Silva), ABC News (06/05, Miller, Brennan), The Guardian (06/05, Tondo), Axios (06/05, Ravid), UPI (06/05, Godfrey), NewsNation (06/05, Shelton), The Times (06/05, Weiniger), CBS News (06/05, Video).

FBI Receives Dozens Of Tips About Doctors, Hospitals Surgically Transitioning Minors

The Daily Wire (06/05, Olohan) reported that the FBI has received over 100 tips regarding surgical transgender procedures on minors after asking Americans to report evidence of medical professionals performing such procedures. According to the article, the move is part of the Trump administration's efforts to scrutinize the transgender medicine industry and protect children from irreversible gender transition procedures. The FBI's call for tips comes after President Donald Trump signed an executive order protecting children from these procedures, which he described as "destructive and life-altering". The article added that Erica Knight, an advisor to Director Patel, told The Daily Wire that the bureau will "never stop fighting for our most vulnerable — our children. As a mother, I'm deeply grateful and proud to know the future of America's kids is one rooted in safety, strength, and opportunity." The FBI posted the following on X on Monday: "Help the FBI protect children. As the Attorney General has made clear, we will protect our children and hold accountable those who mutilate them under the guise of gender-affirming care." The post encouraged Americans to "report tips of any hospitals, clinics, or practitioners performing these surgical procedures on children."

As Ousters Continue, FBI Singles Out Employee Over Friendship With Trump Critic

The New York Times (06/05, Goldman) reported that the FBI has forced out two veteran agents, Spencer Evans and Stanley Meador, and punished another, Michael Feinberg, due to their perceived disloyalty to President Trump. The article noted that Michael Feinberg was targeted for his friendship with Peter Strzok, a critic of President Trump, and was threatened with an investigation and demotion. "I was informed that, because I maintain a friendship with a former FBI executive who is a critic and perceived enemy of the current administration, I would not be receiving any of the promotions for which I was currently being considered, and that I should actually steel myself to be demoted," he said. Feinberg added that the FBI had intended to have him take a polygraph, or a lie-detector test, about the nature of his ties to Strzok, which he said are entirely social. The article assessed that the moves are seen as part of a larger effort by Director Patel and Deputy Director Bongino to remake the agency and mollify Trump's supporters, with critics accusing them of politicizing the FBI and retaliating against employees who disagree with them.

Continued Reporting: Director Patel, a Longtime Bureau Critic, Begins to Put His Stamp on the Agency

NPR (06/05, Lucas) reported that Director Patel, a former critic of the agency, has begun to implement changes since taking the helm over 100 days ago, including redeploying agents and analysts from Washington, D.C. to field offices across the country. The article explained that Director Patel and his deputy, Dan Bongino, are shifting the FBI's focus from traditional law enforcement work to immigration enforcement, with most field offices now working on immigration cases. A spokesman for the FBI, Ben Williamson, said the agency does not comment on specific personnel decisions. But he added that the bureau's "agents and support staff are dedicated professionals working around the clock to defend the homeland and crush violent crime — a mission which certainly overlaps with the consequences of the previous administration's open border policies for four years." The article added that the new leadership has also disbanded the premier public corruption squad, which investigated public officials, and is instead prioritizing cases such as the pipe bombs found near the Capitol and the leak of the Supreme Court's Dobbs decision. "We come in in the morning, there's a portfolio of 100 level 10 items. If it's a level nine, which is a pretty big frickin' deal, someone else fixed it," Deputy Director Bongino told Fox's Maria Bartiromo in a joint sit-down interview with Director Patel last month. "The only thing that gets to my desk or his is a level 10. That's the entire day." In that same interview, Director Patel said his priorities for the bureau were crushing violent crime, defending the homeland, rigorous constitutional accountability, and aggressive constitutional oversight with Congress. He also has promised a "wave of transparency," including on the investigation into possible ties between the 2016 Trump campaign and Russia and the death of disgraced financier Jeffrey Epstein. The Daily Mail (06/05, Spiering) reported that Deputy Director Bongino claims to have video evidence proving Jeffrey Epstein's death was a suicide in his cell at the Metropolitan Correctional Center. Bongino says the video shows Epstein was alone in his cell and that guards checked on him regularly, with no one else entering the area. He conceded the Epstein case was "a hot potato for folks" but also cautioned people against putting too much emphasis on the video he was preparing to release. "It's not the greatest video in the world. I don't want to set expectations on fire." Additional reporting on the story was provided by The Independent (06/05, Bedigan), New York Post (06/05, Norman), The Epoch Times (06/05, Phillips), and Washington Examiner (06/05, Notheis).

COUNTERINTELLIGENCE

Europe Worries About Its Dependence on U.S. Intelligence Under Trump

The Washington Post (06/05, Miller, Mekhennet, Francis) reported that European security officials are worried about their dependence on U.S. intelligence under President Donald Trump, fearing being cut off from crucial information or facing reduced intelligence gathering on Russia. According to the article, the concerns stem from Trump's history of siding with the Kremlin and perceived purges of U.S. intelligence officers and analysts, which could damage U.S. spy agencies and impact the flow of intelligence to European allies. The article explained that in response, European countries, including Germany and the UK, are trying to preserve their relationship with the U.S. while also exploring ways to reduce their dependence on U.S. intelligence, such as boosting their own spy agencies and deepening continental cooperation. The article highlighted that America's closest ally, the United Kingdom, has cultivated members of Trump's security team with royal treatment. Last month, Director Patel and Deputy Director Bongino dined with King Charles III and British Prime Minister Keir Starmer at Windsor Castle. They were joined by other spy chiefs gathered in London for a summit of the "Five Eyes" partnership, an exclusive intelligence-sharing arrangement involving the United States, the U.K., Canada, Australia and New Zealand. The article noted that Charles used the occasion to praise the ongoing value of the Five Eyes alliance, officials said, which Trump trade adviser Peter Navarro suggested dismembering earlier this year with a proposal to expel Canada. The FBI declined to comment.

The Fence Post (06/05, Staff Writer) reported that Yunqing Jian and Zunyong Liu, Chinese nationals, have been charged with conspiracy and smuggling a dangerous biological pathogen, Fusarium graminearum, into the U.S. The pathogen is a potential agroterrorism weapon that can cause significant economic losses and harm to humans and livestock. "The federal charges announced today against Yunqing Jian and Zunyong Liu, both residents of the People's Republic of China, signify a crucial advancement in our efforts to safeguard our communities and uphold national security," said Cheyvoryea Gibson, special agent in charge of the FBI Detroit Field Office. "These individuals exploited their access to laboratory facilities at a local university to engage in the smuggling of biological pathogens, an act that posed an imminent threat to public safety. Thanks to the exceptional investigative efforts of the FBI Detroit Counterintelligence Task Force, in close cooperation with U.S. Customs and Border Protection's Office of Field Operations these dangerous activities have been effectively halted. The FBI remains resolutely committed to collaborating with our law enforcement partners to protect the residents of Michigan and defend the United States against such grave threats." Fox News (06/05, Miller) added that Michael Sobolik, a senior fellow at the Hudson Institute, told Fox News after Director Patel announced the arrests, that the arrests should be a wake-up call, as the CCP aims to "kill Americans" and is in a "cold war" with the U.S. An opinion piece from the Washington Times (06/05, Sadler) quoted a statement from Director Patel: "This case is a sobering reminder that the CCP is working around the clock to deploy operatives and researchers to infiltrate American institutions and target our food supply, which would have grave consequences ... putting American lives and our economy at serious risk." The article added that when the China Initiative was launched in 2018, FBI Director Christopher A. Wray testified on the "naivete" of college administrators in admitting CCP agents. "The use of nontraditional collectors, especially in the academic setting — whether it's professors, scientists, students — we see in almost every field office that the FBI has around the country," he said. The Hill (06/05, Taub) and WXYZ \(ABC-7\) (06/05, Jones) also reported on the story.

According to the article, the use of polygraph tests has been reported at various agencies, including the FBI, Pentagon, and Department of Homeland Security, with officials defending the practice as a way to protect government information. The article noted that critics argue that polygraph tests are unreliable and can be used to falsely accuse innocent people, with examples including the failure to detect spies such as Aldrich Ames and Robert Hanssen, who either passed polygraph exams or were never given one.

The Times (06/05, Moody) reported that Nathan Vilas Laatsch, a 28-year-old U.S. intelligence worker, has been arrested for allegedly trying to leak state secrets to Germany's Federal Intelligence Service (BND). CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIONS

North Carolina Judge Revokes Bond for House Party Shooting Suspect

The Associated Press (06/05, Staff Writer) reported that a North Carolina judge ordered Thursday that a defendant accused in last weekend's shootings at a house party that left one person dead and 11 others injured stay in jail while awaiting trial. The decision came the day after another judge had set a $200,000 bond for Garon Nathaniel Killian, 20, of Lenoir, who is charged with one count of attempted first-degree murder related to the shootings. Prosecutors on Wednesday had asked that no bond be allowed. The article mentioned that Killian had not posted the amount to be released. On Thursday, when Killian had a court date for charges involving a different altercation in April, District Court Judge Scott Conrad revoked the $200,000 bond related to last weekend's violent fracas, according to the Catawba County Clerk of Court's office. Investigators of the shootings that happened early Sunday believe at least 80 shots were fired in a crime scene that spanned several properties along a road in the usually quiet residential neighborhood. FBI agents spent this week at the scene examining bullet trajectories. WLOS \(ABC-13\) (06/05, Doty) and WCNC \(NBC-36\) (06/05, Lee, Pierre) also reported on the story.

WBFF \(Fox-45\) (06/05, Depietro) reported that the FBI is warning students and parents about a growing threat online called 'sextortion, so they know how to avoid risky situations and ask for help if they're being victimized. According to the article, the growing online threat is on the rise this summer, with students home from school for the summer. The outlet spoke with FBI Supervisory Special Agent, Leslie Adamczyk, to discuss those growing concerns. She says there are both sexually motivated predators as well as financially motivated predators. The article quoted Adamczyk, who said, "It's not for large amounts of money; usually, it's for gift cards, $50 or $100, never more than a couple hundred dollars. Those happen really quickly and what is alarming about is we've had a lot of death by suicide in those cases." The article mentioned that the teen, whose family lives on the San Carlos Apache Indian Reservation, insists that the facility is not her home, telling the cop she'd rather live with her grandmother instead. Decker spent time in the military and is an avid outdoorsman, according to authorities. "We're getting more confirmation, that he might have possibly gone through Mountain Survival School," Chelan County Sheriff Mike Morrison told reporters Wednesday. "But we also know, too, that he's been an outdoorsman since he was a kid." On Thursday, he released a new photo showing Decker's tattoos and said search warrants had generated leads. Authorities confiscated the notebook during Mangione's arrest in Pennsylvania after a five-day manhunt for Thompson's killer. In submitting the court filing, state prosecutors were trying to justify the terrorism enhancement added to Mangione's first-degree murder charge. Last month, Mangione's attorney filed a motion to dismiss the state murder charges.

FBI Places Warning Signs at Northeast Ohio Crypto ATMs to Stop Would-Be Scam Victims

WOIO \(CBS-19\) (06/05, Picciano) reported that the very latest Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) report shows $9.3 billion worth of crime related to cryptocurrency. Every day, the FBI is attempting to find the offenders and put a stop to them, but success rates are low when it comes to getting your money back. According to the article, the FBI has a new method they're using to try and stop people from becoming a crypto scam victim in the first place. The article quoted FBI Special Agent Milan Kosanovich, who said, "So people who don't have bank accounts but still want to transit money to friends and family, whether it be across the country, overseas, whatever it is. It's a way to do that. It's a way to do investments, too, if you prefer to onboard yourself into the crypto ecosystem that way," he said. The Cleveland FBI office is now sending out signs to all of the bitcoin operators in the area to serve as a warning sign for those using crypto ATMs for the first time. "If you're using the crypto ATM because somebody that you don't know has told you you have to do this in order to avoid arrest, prosecution, or to escrow your money or something, we want to give you that chance to take a second thought and say, 'hey, look, I should really think about this before I hit send, because once I hit send, I can't do anything to get this back,'" said Agent Kosanovich.

False Rumors of Minneapolis ICE Raid Spark Protest as Police Decry 'Irresponsible' Info From Elected Officials

Fox News (06/05, Norman) reported that a chaotic protest in Minneapolis during which federal agents were seen getting physical with demonstrators unfolded as elected officials posted "highly irresponsible" information online suggesting a criminal search warrant was an ICE operation, police say. Tense moments were captured on video Tuesday as federal agents and the public clashed in the streets of the major city, with Minnesota State Sen. Omar Fateh claiming on Facebook, "On scene are DHS, ICE, FBI, Sheriffs, and MPD" in what he described as "blatant fascism on display." The article stated that in a follow-up post, Fateh said, "While the Mayor has told us ICE is not welcome in our city, what residents saw was their deployment assisted by his MPD." However, the federal operation focusing on a Mexican restaurant actually "was related to a criminal search warrant for drugs and money laundering and was not related to immigration enforcement" and "No arrests were made," according to Minneapolis Mayor Jacob Frey. "The information that came out on social media from elected officials was highly irresponsible," Hennepin County Sheriff Dawanna Witt said Wednesday. "There were ways for them to have accurate information and instead of getting accurate information, being impulsive and putting out things that could potentially incite riots is senseless." Kennedy and his brother, Robert F. Kennedy, in the 1960s. According to the article, at Wednesday's hearing in Washington, Judge Richard Leon of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia suggested he was prepared to bring the release date forward to comply with Trump's wishes, although he also emphasized the importance of sensitivity. Judge Leon said the first step would be for the National Archives and Records Administration to show him the complete inventory of files it has in its possession on the MLK assassination and the FBI investigation that followed, so as to establish the size of the processing task ahead.

Continued Reporting: Grassley Criticized Christopher Wray for 'Lying' About Anti-Catholic Intelligence

The Washington Examiner (06/05, Goldsberry) reported that Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) slammed former FBI Director Christopher Wray for "lying" to Congress two years ago about widely circulating a memo warning about "Radical Traditionalist Catholics." According to the article, as Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman, Grassley obtained documents that confirmed the memo was not solely circulated within the Richmond, Virginia, office, as Wray testified to the committee on two occasions. While on Fox News's America's Newsroom, Grassley responded to a clip of Wray's testimony in December 2023. "He is lying, and he ought to be followed up. Because if people that lie to Congress aren't held accountable, it encourages more people to lie," Grassley said on Thursday. "The fact is, we have had whistleblowers come to us since this famous Richmond memo was made public. We found out that 13 other documents went out, and at least 1,000 people had access to information that presumably was following up on some things that the Southern Poverty Law Center was telling people that the Catholic church needed to be watched because it could be considered a terrorist organization." Back in 2023, Grassley took time during the hearing to point out "portions of the memo that revealed involvement from at least two other FBI field offices, conflicting with Wray's prior testimony," as characterized by a press release from the time. Grassley is now demanding answers on the FBI's internal efforts to erase records related to the memo. In a letter written to Director Patel, Grassley insisted on knowing the name of the official who headed such efforts. - CSIS: Justice on the Ballot? The Impact of Mexico's Judicial Reform on the Rule of Law and Business Environment – Friday, June 6, 2025. Location: Online event, 10:30 AM. In 2024, Mexico approved a sweeping judicial reform poised to reshape the country's legal system. The reform mandates the direct election of all federal and state justices, magistrates, and judges—marking a significant departure from the current appointment-based system. In the short term, the reform introduces uncertainty into Mexico's judicial system, raising questions about continuity, legal coherence, the protection of rights, and the potential infiltration of the elections by organized crime. Over the longer term, these changes may undermine investor confidence, weaken contract enforcement, and complicate dispute resolution mechanisms critical to the North American economic relationship. As Mexico prepares for the 2026 USMCA review, the reform's impact on the rule of law could emerge as a central issue—potentially making the country a less predictable and less reliable trade and investment partner. This panel will explore the immediate and long-term implications of Mexico's judicial reform, including its effect on judicial independence, legal certainty, and regional economic integration.

- AEI: What's Next for K-12 School Reform? – Friday, June 6, 2025. Location: Online event, 3:00 PM. In a recent essay for The New York Times, veteran education reporter Dana Goldstein reflected, “For decades, both Republicans and Democrats strove to be seen as champions of student achievement. . . . At the moment, though, it seems as though neither party, nor even a single major political figure, is vying to claim that mantle.” Indeed, the intense focus on academic outcomes, common standards, and teacher evaluations that characterized American education in the early- to mid-2000s has shifted toward school choice and culture wars.
- Atlantic Council: A deep dive into US-Guatemala economic and security cooperation – Friday, June 6, 2025. Location: Online event, 11:00 AM. The Atlantic Council's Adrienne Arsht Latin America Center, in partnership with the Foundation for the Development of Guatemala, hosts a conversation on the evolving US-Guatemala relationship.
- Hudson Institute: The Evolving Indo-Pacific Order with Foreign Minister of Singapore Vivian Balakrishnan – Friday, June 6, 2025. Location: Hudson Institute, 4:00 PM. Singapore stands at the crossroads of traditional maritime routes and the forefront of rapidly evolving digital and energy infrastructure, making it a crucial partner amid great power rivalries and shifts in global trade dynamics. It is also a diplomatic locus, hosting increasingly vital gatherings like the Shangri-La Dialogue. This strategic position has helped Singapore forge enduring partnerships—including its vital relationship with the United States.
