Thanks [REDACTED] Talk with you soon on our team call. Let's also, presumably separately, chat about the plan for Monday (and beyond) to ensure no miscommunication with the defense and a smooth procedure. And perhaps [REDACTED] should join that call?

The Smith defense has asked for access to their materials at 26 Fed on Monday morning. They then want to do a further review/work, also on Monday, and possibly into Tuesday and beyond. As [REDACTED] knows, we offered a conference room here in our office, to facilitate things. So, in short, please make sure that the defense can access its materials on Monday morning in your office, and they can be securely moved to a room that we will reserve in our space. No agent will be needed to babysit the defense once they are in a room here; rather, we will arrange for someone to do so. This is generally consistent with what we've talked with [REDACTED] about, but I wanted to give you the heads up as soon as possible, and then we can chat about details.
