Join us each week for BAU Sweatpants Seminars, training that will cover a rich and diverse number of behavioral analysis, social science, and psychological topics relevant to all of the FBI's operational and analytical areas of focus.

How does it work? Each Thursday the BAU will send out an invitation for a Skype meeting that contains the topic, and read-ahead materials for the session. The Seminar will be held the following Wednesday, to give participants a chance to schedule, respond and review the class material.

What is the format of the BAU Sweatpants Seminars? The classes are structured to be substantive and engaging, lasting approximately 45 minutes to an hour depending on questions and conversation.

- The content will be provided via PPT (or other media) over Skype for Business
- Each Seminar will contain a summary of the material, key findings and operational applications.
- After the substantive training there will be an opportunity for participants to ask questions and have discussion.

Kick-off. The first Sweatpants Seminar is ready for launch on Wednesday, April 15, 2020. In this session we will dive into Cognitive Interviewing (CI), an innovative interviewing method to enhance witness recall that has been scientifically researched, validated and refined by Dr. Ronald Fisher and Dr. Edward Geiselman over the last 30 years. First, we will look at the history and underpinnings of the CI. Next, we'll explore the elements of the technique, step-by-step. Lastly, we'll delve into a little-known variation of the technique that Dr. Geiselman introduced in 2012, the Cognitive Interview for Suspects (CIS). Attached to this meeting invite are four articles that can be read/reviewed in advance of the Seminar for familiarization:

1. Geiselman, E. and Fisher, R. (2014). "Interviewing Witnesses and Victims," in Investigative

Interviewing: The Essentials, ed. Michel St-Yves (Toronto, ON: Carswell).

2. Geiselman, E. and Fisher, R. (2012). The Cognitive Interview for Suspects (CIS). American Journal of Forensic Psychology, Vol. 30, Issue 3.
3. Geiselman, E. and Fisher, R. (2010). The cognitive interview method of conducting police interviews: eliciting extensive information and promoting therapeutic jurisprudence. Int. J. Law Psychiatry, 33(5-6):321-8
4. Geiselman, E. and Fisher, R. (1989). Field Test of the Cognitive Interview: Enhancing the Recollection of Actual Victims and Witnesses of Crime. Journal of Applied Psychology, Vol. 74, No. 5, 722-727.

We look forward to seeing you on April 15th!
