Hi Everyone,
I talked to SSA [REDACTED] who is the supervisor for the crimes against children squad here. He advised that he would like to interview Sergio Cordero, so if we can get his contact information that would be great. He said that Mr. Cordero will be told upfront that after the initial interview by us, he will be put into a grand jury to testify about the information he is providing. Thanks.
Judy

Thank you [REDACTED].

I will just continue to stay within the scope of my follow up and limit any information provided to her re: any FBI or LE investigation.

I have not provided her any information to date.

Thanks again.

Hi [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] has been in touch with folks in our Miami Division in reference to her pursuit of telling the Epstein story. She has spoken w/ the media coordinator [REDACTED] who has passed the information onto the SA [REDACTED], his original case agent. I've also passed along information to [REDACTED] that was provided by [REDACTED]. We've made every effort not to let [REDACTED] anywhere near [REDACTED] for obvious reasons.

As you can now attest to, [REDACTED] can be a bit overwhelming with her emails and phone calls some of which are starting to read like a personal vendetta. I think I should state for the record that all of us have advised her in one way or another that we are not going to give her blow-by-blow details on what the FBI is doing, or not, with Epstein despite her insistence that we make a move to arrest him now. She insists that every phone call or email she gets regarding Epstein be passed along to someone here at the FBI. Therefore, I'm not sure what to recommend at this juncture about what I'm sure will be a summer full of emails and phone calls on him from her.

Judy if you would like to weigh in, we would appreciate it. To give you some background, [REDACTED] recently reached out to us to say that Epstein's email address was found in her daughter's address book and she was concerned about her safety. SA [REDACTED] at WFO looked into it. I guess what I need to know from Miami is whether you want me, or us, to pass on the information she provides or not. Trust me - it's a daily log of informational emails.

[REDACTED] thanks for looking into the situation with her kid.

Hi all,

I have had several email exchanges with [REDACTED], most of which at least one of you is usually included on the exchange somewhere. I have kept all the emails and printed them to refer to.

I have spoken with [REDACTED] once at length, the day after I received an email to follow up on this situation. [REDACTED] provided a great deal of information regarding Epstein, MC2, And her belief that children were being trafficked through this modeling agency. However, my initial concern was any threat posed to her daughter as a result of Epstein's email appearing on her daughter's contact list.

It turns out that her daughter is 25 years old, and resides in New York. I obtained the email address of her daughter and Epstein's that appeared and can speculate how it got there. At this time [REDACTED] did not feel the level of risk was too great, but assured me that she would provide her daughter my information in case she needed to reach someone familiar with the situation.

The situation continues now to focus on the child sex trafficking allegations and all the information she has gathered. I don't believe the venue is DC/Northern VA, but am happy to assist however you feel necessary.

Do you know if there is someone that she should talk to in Miami about her knowledge, or should she speak to the media rep through the agent there?

I am at a juncture and need some guidance. I know this is not a ball to get dropped, but don't want to involve us here in DC, out of our territory, unless requested to do so, especially if this is all being investigated and uncovered already by agents in other field offices.

Please advise.

Thanks so much,
