Gotcha, that makes sense – and I just heard from the other AUSAs that for the interviews in Florida they had the victim services folks take as much time with the victims (privately) as they wanted at the end of the interview, which seems great.

[REDACTED] doesn't have to sit in the whole interview. She definitely wanted to meet you and obviously explain any services available and have the opportunity to meet the victim before or after the interview to build that rapport.

What floor are you on at SDNY? We can chat prior to the interview

Hi [REDACTED] – thanks so much for helping out! That all sounds fine, except we ordinarily have been doing not more than two agents (so as to keep the numbers as limited—and non-intimidating—as possible), and we haven't had any victim services folks actually in on interviews. Want to give me a call on that? I don't want to offend or step on toes, it's just the first I'm hearing of additional bodies beyond C-20 agents in with victims. Thanks again!

Hey [REDACTED]

Myself and Agent [REDACTED] are going to be helping you today with the interview at 2. [REDACTED] is not available from victim services today, however [REDACTED] is coming. I figured we would come over a few minutes early and touch base, is that good with you?

I'm in trial this morning for closing arguments but I'm available by email.

Give me a shout if you need anything
