Oh ok, my bad interpretation then, I saw the jet door open and heli landing.

I'm off today, so if you are in the office and have the time it will be good, if not what ever day is best for you, I'll try to make it there.

I started another online accounting course. More advance than the one I took before. I'm currently on the portion relating the income statement, balance sheet, cash flow statement, statement of owners equity and how they all relate and effect each other as well as the two accounts that are always affected based on the transaction too keep balance. Very good course

Morning,

Was just about to send a email when I saw the jet, but simultaneously I saw the heli landing, so I guess I missed ya again. Hopefully on your next trip we can meet.
