

Sent: Sunday, October 23, 2016 10:29:53 AM
From: Quora Digest <digest-noreply@quora.com>
To: jeevacation@gmail.com
Subject: If I am from Taiwan, am I a Chinese? - Quora

Top Stories from Your Feed

Your Quora Digest

If I am from Taiwan, am I a Chinese?

Chen Haicun
Written May 20, 2015

Yes you are sir!

You look chinese; you speak chinese language; you write chinese; you cook chinese style cusine; you eat chinese food; you study chinese history; you learn chinese moral principles; your parents are of chinese descent;

Congradulation you are as chinese as a person could ever be.

Now the question is: do you associate yourself more with China, the nation, or not? Read More »

If a revolver were taken back in time and left in Ancient Rome, how long till they figure out how it works and how it's made?

Mark Blanchard
Updated Oct 11

About 45 seconds to figure out what it did. Pull trigger out of curiosity, gun go boom.

Of course, that first accidentally fired shot might hit ol' Flavius Longinus in his gluteus maximus, but you don't have to be Socrates to marvel at that the thing vomiting a little lead slug with tremendous force, leaving behind a smoking empty case made of brass. They'd quickly realize that the stuff inside ...

Read More »

Not a single person I know supports Hillary Clinton. Is that the same for you?

William Murphy
Written Oct 12

This question represents one of the great misunderstandings many people have about politics. It goes like this:

"My friends, family and neighbors all believe the same things I do. That means that most Americans believe the same things I do."

And then, when they see polls that, for example, show that their preferred candidate is losing, they don't believe them. "The polls must be rigged... everyone ...

Read More »

Why are people so angry about China?

Sam Arora, 30+years experience as food scientist, QC/QA managerial and executive positions
Updated 1h ago

Background: I am Canadian citizen from Indian background, soon I be here in a few years for 50 years. I have had worked in the Canadian dairy/food/flavor industry for about 30 years, and for the last 15 I am self employed. In addition I have two masters degrees in dairy and food sciences each, one from U of Punjab India and the other from U of Guelph.

I was born in small town of Punjab region of...

Read More »

How would Medieval people react after eating today's food?

Alberto Yagos, Born in Spain
Updated Oct 15

I've cooked most of the recipes in two Medieval cookbooks, Libre de Sent Sovi and Libre del Coch which were the most important ones in Spain, France and Italy from the 14th to 16th centuries. Some of the recipes are as old as 1220 and some of them also appear in English cookbooks.

Contrary to the popular belief that meat and fish were very expensive, they were quite usual on most tables. Village...

Read More »

If I don't use Vim, can I be a good developer?

Michael Leachim, Yes, my name is a palindrome
Updated Jul 5, 2015

You are definitely cannot be a good developer if you:

Do not use Vim

Do not use Emacs

Do not use Linux

Do not write a blog about functional reactive immutable approach.

Have never assembled some hissing flashing and beeping thing in Arduino

Seriously. These are just stereotypes.

I use Emacs for text, scripts, organizing data. ... Read More »

What would happen if police loaded their first three shots with rubber bullets?

Paul Harding, Deputy Sheriff since 2000
Written Jul 22

Rubber bullets have a goldilocks complex. They only work as intended when everything is "just right."

Fire them at close range, and they are still deadly force.

Fire them at too long a range, and they are ineffective.

If the person you're shooting is wearing a bulky winter coat, it alters these ranges.

The range has to be "just right."

The target area on the body has to be "just right" as well. The ...

Read More »

If you were on the FBI's Most Wanted List, how would you escape the US?

Jon Mixon
Updated Sep 27

Seriously?

I would ditch the fake moustache and the stolen car in the nearest big city with information in that makes it appear that I'm going to a third location distant from my true destination. I would then board a series of bus and travel to North Dakota or Minnesota.

Upon arrival, I would travel to a border city or town and rent an inexpensive room for the night. I would then travel to a nea...

Read More »

My son keeps drawing incredibly intricate mazes. What does this say about how his mind works or where his talents lie?

Kathleen Grace, artist, photographer, writer, top writer 2015, 2016
Written Feb 20

A few years ago I had two private students that I worked with in their home, they were brother and sister, and while I gave them both projects beyond their ability, the boy started working in this direction. The more complicated I made the project, the more he engaged, till he was producing Escher-like drawings.

Now, I'm not professionally certified or qualified to render any professional opini...

Read More »

Who won the third Trump-Clinton debate?

Morgan Evans
Updated Thu

So far, as of 9:45pm ET, it looks like Hillary is doing better. Trump has made numerous grammatical errors, such as "bigley." He has also referred to abortion as "ripping the baby out," and he has already brought up Hillary's husband. In addition, he has called her a liar and a puppet.

His arguments have kept his head above water, but Hillary's answers have been stellar. She's supported her posi...

Read More »

Read More in Your Feed

Follow Quora on:

Get the App for iOS and Android

This email was sent by Quora (650 Castro Street #450, Mountain View, CA 94041). If you don't want to receive these emails in the future, please unsubscribe.