Assange: Next WikiLeaks batch will lead to Hillary Clinton's arrest

DEBKAfile October 30, 2016, 5:32 PM (IDT)

WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange said Sunday that the next batch of hacked emails he plans to release will lead to the arrest of Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton. Two days ago, the FBI reopened the investigation into her private server as Secretary of State, knocking her campaign sideways. After releasing 21 emails batches this month, Assange has more than 50,000 to go "with enough evidence to see Hillary Clinton arrested."
