I have spoken to a lot of ceos of fund outfits who say Saudis have been pulling billions of dollars in separate account money -- not just from BR. And plus I cant believe they would have so much tied up in lock ups.

what is your back of the envelope guess as to much Saudi money tied up in such funds?

most of the Saudi money is tied up in PE funds. no withdrawals allowed. and I'm not seeing much in the secondary market. Blackrock is more money market, more like custodian than investor.

Interesting. CEO of big finance firm told me that Saudis (SAMA) have withdrawn $200 billion that has been parked with usual suspects over past year or so. That number seems in line with what you know?

words that you refer to one thing, USA. the stock market / the Royal family, are no longer very useful. In politics the USA meant the White House. now there is Pentagon, CIA, state, and congress in addition, each feels empowered to act more independently. stock market even in tech, needs bio tech, consumer tech. infrastructure tech. etc. same with Royal family, there are 20k members of a tribe. called the royal family, the words are misleading. if your article is focused on bin Salman, or the very top. no one is wondering where they can find the local Costco. but they are aware that a message needs to be sent to their population regarding the next 20 years, social media, and the selfie crowds post the best of everything, their cutest pictures the amazing food the luxury resorts. the masses see these things and as the difference between expectations and reality widen, the anger grows. Trump has tapped in.

with the passage of the 9/11 Saudi bill, unlike the French revolution where it was the people of France that revolted against their own aristocracy, with the internet and globalization of disconnection it is now the Americans that can revolt against the Saudi leadership. it is the Americans that are demanding women's drive. not the Saudis
