not any issues for me personally, but it makes me sad to see people say horrible things about you that I know are false. It doesn't affect me because I am aware that they are false, but I don't think its fair for you to have a tainted picture of yourself put out to the world, where some people with lack of better knowledge might think you are the type of person the press says you are.

I am now trying to make a decision about dealing with the false press. Up until today, I have never said anything. I will probably sue the newspapers. I wanted to know from each of you , if you felt the press had created any issues for you guys.. that means a lot to me
