Hey Jeffrey

I hope all is well. I have been working with a part of our Engineering team that we call the Design Team. We have several ways we can go. I told them ride quality was at the utmost importance. With a close second, third and fourth of safety, speed and easy close quarters maneuverability.

We are going to need a steep dead rise. Great shock mitigation. Great AC system and I would recommend Technology such as Yamaha Helm master or Hamilton Blue arrow systems.

Two quick questions and we will be able to send you some options over ASAP.

What is your desired top and cruise speed?
And how many passengers per trip will be on the boat?

Thanks for the help and have a great day.
Scott
