Please accept the following as a committee letter in support of the admission of [REDACTED] into the New York University School. I have acted as [REDACTED] executives to the UNITAR Summer School on International Diplomacy. Based on my experience with [REDACTED], I can say without shadow of a doubt that she is one of the brightest and hardworking students with whom we had the opportunity to work. She is exclusively well prepared to move onto the college level and it is clear to me that she has a very promising future in a Public Policy and Foreign Affairs career.

To start with, I would like to clarify that The UNITAR Summer School on International Diplomacy was designed for graduates and undergraduates students of International Relation, Political Science and other related subjects. Despite the high competition upon approval and [REDACTED] disqualification of the school's requirements, [REDACTED] has drawn our attention as one of the most interesting candidates. With such willingness to participate in the program and contentment of her resume we saw her as a confident and passionate person who willing to take a risk and commit to serve.

During our sessions we were honored to present our distinguished diplomates and high-level UN officials. Every student had a unique opportunity to openly discuss on substantial issues and express their opinion on certain subjects, whereas, [REDACTED] has demonstrated her intelligence, independent thinking and leadership skills. It is important for the NYU to invest in and keep talented people such as [REDACTED]. I am confident that she will grow professionally from this program, allowing her to climb to a high level. In short, She comes from a multicultural background -- ethnically Asian, raised in Russia -- attributing to the American ambition needed to reinforce her already solid foundation necessary to succeed in your university's program.
