

Sent: Monday, October 7, 2013 2:37:26 PM
Subject: Fwd:
From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
To: jeffrey epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>

----- Forwarded message -----

From: [REDACTED]
Date: Sunday, October 6, 2013
Subject:
To: stan v <[REDACTED]>

Hi babe,

I'm sorry yesterday I needed some time be alone to refresh my mind. Also with a poor sleep night before I wasn't able to think straight. I feel better today and writing to you to express my thought.

You know I love you and enjoyed every moment we spent together...

I was thinking last night about us and I understand your concerns. The thing with the message that happened the other day was mostly my fault and I am afraid that it is drifting us apart from each other...I don't want you do not trust me or all the time suspect I keep secrets from you. I know I should have told you and I did not meant to lie or keep it secret from you. I just was not sure if it would work and I knew you would not like this idea. Knowing your jealousy I did not want to hurt you or loose you but I guess I made wrong decision by keeping your away from my problems...babe I want you to understand that I really LOVE you and I'm not the type of girls you met before. I would never date or see another guy behind your back. I respect you and everything you have done for me, for our relationship and if ever something happens I rather talk to you and explain. I want you stop being suspicious about me and everything i do and please truth me. ruining our relationship or hurting you are the last think I wish.

Babe, I dont want to fight with you anymore. Every time we argue and hurting each other It leaves a huge hole and pain in my heart. By trying to keep you away from my issues I wanted to bring a peace but it turned opposite. How I mentioned you before since I'm in NY I have to deal with tough realities: financial commitments, obligations for rent, school, life, time commitments to work, my documents and now emotional commitments to you. I would love your help and support. Our friction hurts me, you and our relationship, trust between us is important. I hope that we no longer have to spend what little time we have together, rediscovering. LETs try to move forward and work as a team I appreciate all you have done and want to spend quality time without stress and be happy together.