

From: RSVP [REDACTED] >
To: "jeevacation@gmail.com" <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: FOLLOW UP LAWRENCE O'DONNELL INVITES YOU
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2013 4:12:32 PM

Lawrence O'Donnell

invites you and a guest
to join

filmmaker Cullen Hoback

at a special screening of

Hyrax Films'

Terms And

Conditions May Apply

a Variance Films release

Written and Directed By Cullen Hoback

Featuring Margaret Atwood Ray Kurzweil Moby Barrett Brown(anonymous) Chris Anderson(Wired)

Eli Pariser (Upwothy) Rainey Reitman (EFF) Christopher Soghoian(ACLU) Sherry
Turkle(MIT) and Mark Zuckerberg

Thursday, November 7th, 2013

7:30PM-Screening

8:45PM-Cocktails & Hors d'oeuvres

Core Club

66 East 55th Street

(Between Park & Madison)

OFFICIAL SELECTION:

Slamdance

Dallas International FF

Sonoma International FF (Winner--Jury Prize for Best Doc Feature)

Newport Beach FF (Winner-Jury Prize for Best Doc Feature)

Seattle International FF

"The content of this quietly blistering documentary should rile even the most passive viewer" - Jeannette Catsoulis, New York Times

"Cullen Hoback efficiently amps audience paranoia about the purposeful erosion of privacy in the digital age"-Joe Leydon, Variety

Admit it: you don't really read the endless terms and conditions connected to every website you visit, phone call you make or app you download. But every day, billion-dollar corporations are learning more about your interests, your friends and family, your finances, and your secrets, and they're not only selling the information to the highest bidder, but also sharing it with the government. And you agreed to all of it. This disquieting exposé demonstrates how every one of us is incrementally opting-in to a real-time surveillance state, click by click- and what, if anything, you can do about it.

Runtime is 79 minutes

Released in New York on July 12th, 2013