i think this is worth a shot just because of all the extra music streaming features the sonos platform offers for the price range and the size of the space i think this is worth a shot with this seems like it would be great to have a network aware sound system that is totally scaleable more like $1800-1900 when we factor in an extra base station or (i could swap one or more from the house as your order was delivered of the newer ones)

please advise

thank you

Scott
