The third screw was installed a couple of months ago. Steph will bring more lighters to the table.

Reefco recommended putting an insulated plenum for the air return in cabin 1. They haven't sent me a quote on that yet but it would cost approximately $800. If this brings the noise level down sufficiently we would repeat that in Cabin 2 & 3. Cabin 4 already has a Sanyo split unit. Their reasoning is the units are not that old and the efficiency gains would be very minimal. Also, because the units would have to be relocated into the bedrooms instead of where the current airhandlers are located (in the bathroom), the install would be quite expensive.
