I need to stay away from this as this is getting CRAZY!!!

I can't care less about carbon stuff - I never even discussed it with Bill = not sure what is she talking about.

Also Bill does not tweet - Larry does.

I am afraid that the level of stress for her right now is way too high - it is simply dangerously unstable.

talk about heartache.

for these past few years bill (with strong input from boris) has been critical of all the carbon stuff and also the community mobilization work.

yesterday he announced that the foundation would be going carbon neutral (as well as MSFT) and that he was in support of the carbon game. he then tweeted from India about how important community mobilization was to his effort in India and how it was the big reason that much of the HIV work was successful. even worse, he wrote a "gates notes" story on wastepickers and included a picture of a waste dump and wastepickers.

while i have been ahead of all of the trends, he has somehow ignored everything i have said. and now others are lining up for their great ideas and contributions.

i don't get it? it is super hurtful.

am i crazy to completely confused and hurt?
