Two Afgani mothers sitting in a cafe chatting The older of the mothers pulls her bag out and starts flipping through photos.
This is my oldest son Mohammed. He would be 24 years old now I remember him as a baby says the other mother. He's a martyr now though" mum confides.
And this is my second son Kalid. He would be 21 I remember him says the other happily he had such curly hair when he was born.
He's a martyr too says mum quietly.
this is my third son. My baby. My beautiful Ahmed. He would be 18, she whispers.
Yes says the friend enthusiastically, I remember when he first started school.
He's a martyr also says mum, with tears in her eyes.
After a pause and a deep sigh the second mother looks wistfully at the photographs and says.
They blow up so fast don't they
