All continues to be very tempting. One thing we'd very much like to work out, if it's possible for you, would be a visit to the ranch. Don't know if we told you but we're planning a longer stay in Tucson over the winter, January-February. Would that work?

And that Caribbean island is particularly tempting.<=r>

If contemporary biology is on the right track, development is DNA modulated, and I don't see why what happens "above the neck" (metaphorically speaking) should be basically different from the rest. As to what's feasible, or even possible in principle, is very obscure, to my knowledge. Even for simple traits, to find the DNA coding is "fiendishly difficult" (Massimo Pigliucci).

hopefully to spend some time with you and Valeria. I will be on the ranch, and the island mostly, also on the beach. you both are welcome each.

development, I assume is DNA modulated. do I understand that you believe that cognition is also DNA modulated, If so, with genetic modification, it would be able to finally play basketball
