i spoke with julie (sister in law that set up STC account) and then amanda ens ML is ok with account and i believe amanda may have just been aggressive in wanting our business

after speaking with amanda it does appear that her desk is a better fit to accommodate your trade size and ideas amanda said she was paul barrets partner at JPM Global Investment Opportunities (GIO) desk from 2011-2013 (you may want to check accuracy with paul) she then went on to run her own team from 2013-2016 at JPM before moving to merrill amanda says she sent you correspondence in the past and remembers dealing with darren amanda covers family offices, institutional individuals and small hedge funds

please advise if we should transfer to her team and put ISDA agreements in place thank you

Rich,

It was nice to speak today. Please find my contact info attached and my bio below.

Amanda Ens

Director, Global Equities

Bank of America Merrill Lynch

Amanda Ens joined Bank of America Merrill Lynch in 2016 as a Director in Global Equities based in New York. In her position, Amanda is focused on growing the firm's equities and structured transactions business with family offices and hedge funds.

Prior to joining BAML, Amanda was at JPMorgan for 10 years. Most recently, she was an Executive Director and team lead for JPMorgan's Global Investment Opportunities Group in New York, where she provided cross-asset sales coverage and opportunistic investment advice to family offices, hedge funds and large individual investors. From 2008 to 2011, she was an institutional FX and rates sales, where she covered multinational corporations and specialty finance companies. Amanda began her career in investment banking and interest rate derivatives in 2006.

Amanda holds a Bachelor of Commerce in Finance from McGill University in Montreal, Quebec.

Best,

Amanda
