Sorry was driving, I think that regardless of=whether it's real or not it it's great because it's forcing the community i=to a logical consistency game. Both the letter and the "bribing" are great w=ys to test dao's and ethereum's "core beliefs/principles/design choices" an= show how/why they fail in the real world. So either way they lost and the a=tacker won

Speculation: I don't think he did it for the money <=r> Sent from my Iphone
