I came back to Island today and reviewed progress on Big ,all looks great and I'm please with progress. A decision needs to be made on the fuel tanks. At this time the tanks are not leaking but will in the near future. After extensive cleaning the bottom of the tank has many large pits that will soon start to leak. The condition of the tanks most likely were caused by not having a proper sealing of the deck fitting allowing salt water to enter the tank and do its damage. These fittings were placed on the deck ,in our quote we would have a stand pipe above the deck next to the wheel house so this problem will not happen again. We will need an answer soon so work will not be delayed any longer than necessary.
