Richard,

As previously =iscussed, one of the benefits of LSJ purchasing the materials =hrough Cruzan Gardens is that we will hand tag premium plants, and will =row out materials at our nursery. This would insure that the =lants re-flush fully from spending a week in a dark refrigerated =ontainer. We will spray, provide root stimulants, fertilize, =rrigate, etc. to push new blooms and foliage so Jeffrey doesn't ever =ave to see a bunch of twigs and sticks being =nloaded.

The drawback, however, is that it =ill take a minimum of 3 weeks from the time we receive the container on =TX to turn the materials around to =SJ.

Therefore, if we finalize the sales order =his week we would anticipate tagging next week, shipping to STX the =eek of June 5th (Memorial Day screws up the schedule for loading the =revious week), unload June 11th on STX, reload and ship to LSJ the week =f July 8th.

You mentioned that LSJ =ould be getting a large order of Coconut palms shortly, so between that =nd running irrigation for the plants that we are providing, we won't be =ar apart on the required timeframe.

There's only one sailing a week (Thurs.)- otherwise we would have more options.

Let me know if you have any questions or require additional information.

Regards,

Kenneth Holmes

Rich,

I made a couple of calls to vendors that we released our holds on. The main item at this point I see an issue with is the (10) Butia palms, namely that they aren't available anymore through the vendor I was working with. I suggest leaving them off the sales order for now, and if we can find them for a reasonable price in FL we can add them back in later. The other option would be to use our Royal palms instead, but I don't know if that fits into Jeffrey's and Chris' planting scheme at the secondary pool.

Without the Butia palms the total would come to $56,146.65, excluding freight. Payment in full is required prior to processing the order. Payments by credit card are subject to a 3% processing fee.

Let me know how you wish to proceed.
