Hi Dave –

<=p>

OK – well understood – the bunkers are definitely arranged and sure we can load all the rig stuff there also.

<=p>

I will change the dockspace in MFL back to a T dock .

<=p>

I'll also find out about the college football and let you know –

See you soon...<=o:p>

<=p>

Best regards</=pan>

Hi Simon,

Sorry for the confusion as you know nothing is ever straight forward in this game - The charter is due to start in St. Thomas 2= /12 but due to the limited time available to prepare the yacht, we have co=tacted the broker & asked if the clients can embark in SXM - We are still awaiting a reply but hope to rece=ve news later today

Not sure if you received my request for bunkers (40,=00 lts) upon arrival SXM (am) 25/12 but I was hoping to get all provisions=(heavy items) loaded at the fuel berth before moving to the alongside T He=d in the marina - The breakwater is OK for a short stop but if we stay for a few days & embark passenge=s then the T - Head is the better options.

TM is still scheduled to proceed to the BVI's =amp; disembark in St. Thomas but if we are delayed by weather then we may =eed a few extra days in MFL (Hence 4 - 5 days) - Now you have the inner wo=kings of the Master Plan so we are all on the same page

Please advise best venue for the charter clien=s to view US College Football games in SXM & BVI's - We have sig=ed with DIRECT TV TRINIDAD SPORTS MAX Package but unfortunately Collage Fo=tbball is not listed

Best Regards

Confusing it is – 4=5 days on the marina?

I thought you were doing = run past.

<=p>

I had already booked the =reakwater dock for you – easy to load and offload etc...<=:p>

(but no power) – is=this OK?

<=p>

We did launch Alikan, tes= run and found a bad gearshift cable, so it was a good thing – we re=auled her at bobby's marina to do the antifoul

<=p>

She will be all ready to =o.
