it is simply that i equate the time and energy and intention of us, and i take a look around me and note what i see. I have no idea what this means.. it says I equate the time and energy?... i think that means that you find what you think about to be worth something asopposed to what you actaully do. life is about do , not think, I remeber telling you it doesn't matter that you think you are a good girfrined, you need to be one. it is alright to lead a contemplative life, but no one ,pays for it.
