i realize how difficult this time is for you..... your spiritual train is crashing into reality. 10 years ago , i tried to explain that financial security should be your focus, so that you would then would be able to explore the realm of the airy , as you pleased, you chose not to go to school because you would be 25 before you finished, it is not too late. I respect the fact that you have followed your own path, remember , If you do the same thing over and over you should not expect different results. i don't know how to help
