after looking at all the column sizes I understand your concern trying to be complementary to the office. my observation is concerning the scale of the col's from the patios on the master as well as the main house in the future. the round col's are 10" and square is more mass, standing on the patio my sense is 14" square is getting big. I will shoot some photo's from the patio tomorrow and forward for some more Photoshop work if you approve?
