ETC is working up a quote for us to have one camera built into each call box at each entry gate. The cameras are fully color during the day and change to black and white at night. They are not "night vision" cameras. They need a little light to see who is there. If we went with a "night vision" (IR Camera) it would not fit in the call box and would be a significant price increase. Should I get both quotes or just the low light cameras?
