Im surprised with the administrations recognition that we need to protect ourselves from terrorists so we take the fight to their countries. We stand along side those on main street that have to compete with china and india. and with the goal of keeping america strong and protecting its financial system , we need to compete with Foreign banks.. The U.S. has shown itself during the crisis as the pre-eminent financial power, we want to work alongside the administration in keeping it that way. We would support any legislation that strenthens that position.
