Wishing you a wonderful New Year! So, we arrived in NJ (flat and snowy) only the people speak French and can't seem to give out a straight answer. The most common response is, "Can I call you later when I find out?" Which translates to "fuck-off" or I have no idea, let me call someone else who has no idea and then another person with again, no idea! It's very funny. We also think it translates to: my shift is ending in 5min, call back when I'm not here. Also, the women to men ratio on the plane was 5 to 1. It was strange. And so far they were cute! I have a crush on the women at the front desk. :) Thinking of you.
