Subject: Michael from South Florida asking for address

Michael from South Florida is asking for your address so he may send you something he wants to make you for your birthday...he says it's perishable and he will send in dry ice. As long as someone can put in freezer it will be fine. He does not want you to know any of this. He wants it to be a surprise. Do I give him the office address? I am positive he will call me 10 more times requesting this...or do I just say I cannot give him an address?
