Ok...that's helpful. You don't need to justify your decisions, it's clear to me you have enough good reasons. I only needed you to close the door on our relationship and tell me you know what you're doing. Last time we spoke you were unable to say we were done - you said you didn't know. This was in October. But now it sounds like you finally do know what you want. I have no intentions of changing that so - closed it is. Thank you, I'll start synthesizing.

I do still need to sit with you but we don't need to discuss this any further. There are obviously still practical issues that need to be addressed.

PS: We have been through a lot and I mean it when I say I am just as embarrassed about my behavior as you are about putting up with it. There was a lot of negativity I admit to causing, but let's not make it more dramatic than what it was. My intentions were not 'devious'. I was a spoiled brat but there was no master plan to take advantage of you or any "strategic and demonic" tactic to exploit your love. My feelings for you were 100% genuine. There was no strategy driving my uncooperative behavior, jealousy and selfish attempts to keep you all for myself. I can't justify any of that. But I hope you understand that my desire was not to get your money, lifestyle or any other perks, but YOU and, yes, your attention. No more, no less.

I cannot have any more girlfriends. I am done. I have no interest, The last years have drained me. I am free, and i intend to stay that way, for a very very long time. I am continuing to recover. You and I have been through a lot together.. You have taken much much much more than you have given.. As I have said previously, I should not have let it go on so long. but i was candid and said that i didn't see a need for you to learn the hard way, you and [REDACTED] meant too much., I told you 6 years ago on the beach in florida. You chose to take advantage of that fact. nag nag nag nag nag nag.. it was a good strategy. you got attention, money, an education in life. all you had to do was nag. that is pretty good, I am willing to sit face to face.. I have little to say that I have not said before. numerous times,, all to no avail. I can't believe i put up with so much for so long. It is embarrassing. - for us both. I know for sure that I have no patience left. This is a failing that i have to live with. If you want a face to face, you have been a friend, and i rarely refuse friends..
