hi there i know you and boris and bill and others are talking about financial innovation (boris is interested in g20 stuff; bill in currency); i'm charged internally with coming up with some financial innovation from a programmatic perspective. things we can not only tell others to do but maybe model ourselves. can you help me? if you think there is something that can be done? boris and bill will talk about things and make recommendations but i will be the one to implement from our end. also, some interesting comments/feedback for you. maybe tomorrow talk?
