He said "I told my son that we would wait until he was older to finish that discussion. "Nothing about you and gone . You are so ready to find a problem,fragile that you hear things that are never said so that you may complain with assurance. Walking on eggs is no fun.

I think you have been VERY respectful too (asking to pick me up from the airport was a bit much may be) But you asked me whenever I would feel 'uncomfortable' in a situation I should say it.. The man sitting in the room even said 'well we'll talk about that stuff when she is gone'.. because its not respectful to talk about those things with women around.

I don't care if you say those things with [REDACTED] or other close friends around, but I just met this guy 5 min ago..

I'm really sorry that I upset/hurt you, because you don't deserve that, you are a great guy and I'm very thankful for the time we've spend together..
