

To: jeffrey epstein[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Thur 1/12/2012 9:54:06 AM
Subject: meeting

yes, i know, but what if i meet you at ritz, it could be even better..there is no [REDACTED] at ritz who I imagine is every day in your house

Schedule: tonight thursday, im here at Place Vendome till 6 p m, then free after 8.30 p m; friday am free any time after 5 p m, saturday morning i go to normandie more likely for the weekend

dear, i should talk abt lsat to you and i started to look for new books... and I am sure I am ready to fight till the end for the good american law school i have already done all tests in LSAC original books, 2 of them, Barron and Princeton review... but all these tests dated from 1997 till 2002 .. I made a research abt LSAT preparation in general online and the experts, law school advisers advice us to take the most recent tests which should be from around 2005 till 2011, but they are unfindable. Do you have any idea where I can get a good 100 of recent tests before I leave for AUS ? So i will have about 6 months to prepare for it again..the only thing lacking is a new material