David is moving forward.
Just had a call with him and three other partners.
A fund and a management company are incorporated. A name and URL is secured.
They are now adding three other bios to strengthen.
A deadline in on Monday.
A PPM is getting revised.
The following week we are starting talking to his people.

So it seems that things are moving forward - although considering how many time by how many people i was let go - I am cautiously optimistic.

Yes - Khosla is funding an Indian digital currency - and also he has several other companies in that space (not only India but also USA and Europe) as he wants to change that space

I just arrived to Seattle for a day - driving to Silicon Valley tmr.

How are you?
