he wants to but there is a board meeting on Tuesday morning for msft and he's going to drop a big bombshell and bring ht ereally cool new computers he made. which means monday is demo day with his team etc. i don't think he will and honestly this thing is so very important to his career that i think i need to let him be.

boris is there with me for the weekend anyway so that will be superfun.

dr. port says if we go ahead with surgery it will be oct 3 or 4 (whichever one is the tuesday can't remember) and steve will go for that for sure.

i'm just waking up in beijing and loving it here. it has changed SOOOO much. this hotel is incredible, more than i thought the beijing-ren could do!

going to write a shopping story and its a challenge since i only have 3 hours. !!!!

was going to ask you about angola. is that a place you want to learn more about. the daughter of the president is supposedly very hot and smart and runs a number of banks. read the economist story about her last week, she's basically bringing invetment back from portugal to angola. better economy. it's an odd place for sure. world's most expensive city. i spent $85 on a grilled cheese sandwich. not super monetized economy yet.
