

To: Boris Nikolic[boris.nikolic@bgc3.com]
From: jeffrey epstein
Sent: Tue 6/7/2011 3:09:03 PM
Subject: Re: RE:

Talk about it mon

Sorry for all the typos .Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 7, 2011, at 5:03 PM, Boris Nikolic <Boris.Nikolic@bgc3.com> wrote:

>
> In Beijing. Not my favorite place on the world.
>
> Re apartment - I wanted to ask you in person, but it came out during my conversation with Melanie.
>
> I am planning to start spending more time in NYC (a week per month) and would like to have a "home" there (that I can leave my clothes etc). So far I have been always staying in hotels.
> Also, I need to find a solution for Sam who is currently leaving with mother and father. Therefore, I am planning to rent some placed in NYC to accommodate both of these needs.
> Nevertheless I am NOT looking for show off place - I am looking for place to crash and sleep. Bigger studio or 1 bedroom in a non-doorman building will be fine for me.
>
> At the same time SADLY, I still have constrains in budget. With places in Seattle and Boston and Sam having no income - I was thinking of spending 2,000US/month for a place in NYC - which unfortunately will not get me much.
> Therefore, I was thinking if you have any creative idea - any rent controlled apartment or sublease on any place or something similar?
>
> This is not urgent (I was thinking of August - September) - but if you hear of anything/or have any suggestion.
>
> Thank you
>
> B
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: jeffrey epstein [mailto:jeevacation@gmail.com]
> Sent: Monday, June 06, 2011 8:32 AM
> To: Boris Nikolic
> Subject:
>
> Is the apt you need for you or for sam?
>
> Sorry for all the typos .Sent from my iPhone