Sorry I missed your call on Friday afternoon James. I was in Court awaiting a jury verdict which did not come through until late evening. You can reach me on the mobile any time over the weekend/Bank holiday if you get a moment.

Regards.

Paul

Paul

I tried to call but could not get through. I think Mr Epstein needs to talk to the Duchess.

Unfortunately that will not work James. The DT is refusing to engage with us, primarily as a result of your client's comments. We need to be able to follow up with the letter.

Paul.

Dear Paul

Further to my email I would like to confirm that we would prefer The Telegraph and any other publications to approach us directly for such a statement rather than have a letter sent out via a third party.

I suggest Mr Epstein liaises directly on this with the Duchess of York.

Regards

James

James,

Further to my earlier email, I would confirm that we would intend, if appropriate, to furnish the letter to the Daily Telegraph and other in house Legal Departments with whom we have been corresponding.

We are happy to liaise with you before releasing the letter, but would be grateful if you would forward same to us in the first instance, as soon as possible.

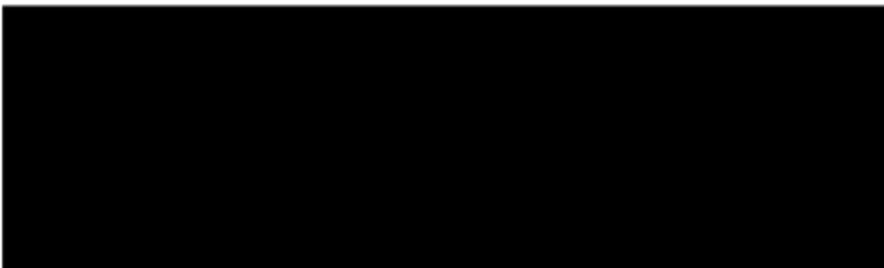

Kind regards,

Paul
