Jeffrey,

I am not sure I understand all of your comments below or in the previous email. Here is what I would like to review tomorrow on the cal (along with any new comments you have):

Flagpole Pool:

- Is the pool built? We were not told that – just that the hole was partially dug to see where the pool would be. Raising the pool was one of your original ideas – to be able to sit on the edge of the deck and look out towards the sea. It is not something we are pushing for – just wanted to find out if it was still a consideration.
- We can cut down the existing walls to whatever elevation you think is right. We did not touch them in the model – just worked on the new walls and revised steps.
- Sounds like all we really have left to do is:
  - Landscaping (We would need consultant to get specific with this, and have them work with us on the Island. I do not think it would be productive to design this from here.)
  - Deck paving design.
  - Final shade structure design.

Main Residence:

- We need confirmation that the living room location is "approved".
- We provided elevations as requested, to show the roof spring lines align.
- We added the portal by the pool, based on Gary's info. (As directed, it does not seem to align with a specific view/vista point?)
- We need your comments on the east terrace concepts.
- You previously told us the north terraces were ok for concept.
- Need your comments about the revised area connecting to the library.

- We seem to be stuck between two conflicting issues for the area between the road and the main residence: walls versus berm/landscaping. We probably need to go with one or the other, but neither seems to be preferred
- Next steps for main residence/living room.

Gary, we really need you on either on-line or on the phone for this.

Thanks,

Warwick
